

Electric and electronic products

Yes please

- Household devices (see No thanks)
- Portable electric tools
- Scales

No thanks

- Light bulbs, low-energy lamps, fluorescent tubes
- Refrigerators, freezers and other equipment containing coolants
- Computers, monitors, printers and other workplace technology are taken care of by SLL-IT
- Radioactive material
- Pots from coffee makers

Handling

Place in the sorting box for electronics in the recycling room. Electric and electronic products, also called e-waste, must not be mixed in with any other type of waste, including household or bulky waste. Electrical waste should be handled as hazardous waste.

To replace/scrap computers, monitors, printers, telephones and other workplace technology, contact SLL-IT.

For bulky electronic waste (for example television sets and microwave ovens), contact Coor's Helpdesk.